Insecta Norvegiae can be considered as a supplement to Fauna norvegica Ser. B., and appears irregularly. The journal publishes information relevant to Norwegian entomology and emphasizes papers which are mainly faunistical or zoogeographical in scope or content, including catalogues, distribution maps, checklists and larger faunal lists. Biographies, bibliographies etc. will also be considered.

Submissions must not have been previously published or copyrighted and must not be published subsequently except in abstract form or by written consent of the editors.

Authors are requested to contact the editors prior to submission.

The Norwegian Entomological Society

promotes the study of the Norwegian insect fauna and forms a link between interested persons. Questions about membership should be directed to the Secretary of NEF: Trond Hofsvang, P.O.Box 70, N-1432 Ås-NLH. Membership fee N. kr. 100.- should be paid to the Treasurer of NEF: Lise Hofsvang, Brattvollveien 107, N-1164 Oslo 11.

A bibliography of Norwegian caddisfly publications (Insecta: Trichoptera) 1879 - 1985

IVAR STOKKELAND

Stokkeland, I. 1988. A bibliography of Norwegian caddisfly publications (Insecta: Trichoptera) 1879 - 1985. Insecta norvegiae 3, 1 - 34.

The bibliography contains 153 entries, covering the period 1879 to 1985. The main criteria for including material have been that Trichoptera makes up a major part of the content. The bibliography includes material published in Norway and/or has at least one Norwegian author and/or treats caddisflies collected in Norway, including Svalbard and Bear Island. The bibliography has a systematic index covering Norwegian species, a subject index and a geographical index.

I. Stokkeland, Varden 61, N-9000 Tromsø, Norway.

INTRODUCTION

This bibliography is based on my thesis at the Norwegian School of Library and Information Science (Stokkeland 1987). The motivation for writing this bibliography is rooted in my interest in entomology. I hope the bibliography will be used both by scientists and amateurs within entomology, and limnology, as well as by librarians.

The main criterion for including material in the bibliography has been that Trichoptera makes up a major part of the content. This means that comprehensive limnological articles or reports fall outside the scope of this bibliography, even though they list Trichoptera species. Moreover, articles in encyclopedias or in textbooks are not included. I have in no way evaluated the content of the material included, and the bibliography thus covers all sorts of material from scientific articles and monographs to popular articles.

The bibliography includes material published in Norway and/or has at least one Norwegian author and/or treats caddisflies collected in Norway, including Svalbard and Bear Island. The intention was to gather at least 95% of the material published before 1986; the oldest article recorded here is Wallengren's description of new Scandinavian species published in 1879. No linguistic criteria have been set, but I have only found articles written in English, German and in the Scandinavian languages.

The bibliography is arranged alphabetically by first author, and each entry is given a serial number. For two articles the author is unknown, one of these (serial no. 082) is published under a pseudonym, the other is listed at the end of the bibliography. For each author entries are arranged chronologically after the year of publication. When an author has published more than one article during a year, the articles are arranged alphabetically by title. Reference is given from co-author to senior author and to serial number.

The cataloguing mainly follows the Norwegian issue of the Anglo-American cataloguing rules, second edition (Spangen 1983). The bibliography is unannotated except for notes on academic dissertations and on lectures at symposiums etc.

There are three indexes: a systematic index covering Norwegian species, a subject index and a geographical index. In the systematic index the taxa are listed according to Andersen & Wiberg-Larsen (1987); only taxa which have entries are included. Larger faunistic papers, covering a high number of taxa, are not indexed, but are listed at the end of the systematic index under the heading "Faunistics". The headings in the subject index are mainly taken from Foote's (1977) "Thesaurus of entomology". In the geographical index the notations of Norwegian provinces follow Strand's system as revised by Økland (1981). Two theses, serial no. 063 and 151, have clausula and are thus not indexed.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to Trond Andersen, Bergen, for valuable suggestions and information during all stages of the preparation of this bibliography. Wolfgang Tobias, Frankfurt a. M., has given information about articles printed in Germany. Further, John O. Solem, Trondheim, and Hans Tambs-Lyche, Copenhagen, have contributed informations to the bibliography. Per Opsahl, Oslo, was my tutor at the Norwegian School of Library and Information Science. I also wish to thank the staff at the libraries of the following institutions for willingly lending me literature: University of Oslo, University of Bergen, University of Trondheim, University of Tromsø, The Agricultural University, Ås, Stavanger Museum, Norwegian Institute for Water Research, Oslo and The City Library, Oslo.

Insecta Norvegiae

GUIDE TO AUTHORS

Insecta Norvegiae publishes papers in English, occasionally in Norwegian with an extensive English abstract. When preparing manuscripts for submission, authors should consult current copies of Fauna norvegica and follow its style as closely as possible.

Manuscripts should be submitted to the editors in two copies. They should be typed in double spacing, on one side of the paper and with wide margins. Separate sheets should be used for the following: 1) Title page, with author's name. 2) An abstract, with the name and full postal address of the author underneath. 3) Tables with their headings. 4) Legends to figures.

Nomenclature. The first time a binomen is used in the text the author name and the date of description should be included, i.e. Rhyacophila nubila (Zetterstedt, 1840). Underline all generic and species names in the text.

Figures and tables. All illustrations should be identified with the author's name and the figure number. Approximate position of figures and tables in the text should be indicated in the margin.

Acknowledgements should be given under a single heading at the end of the text, immediately before the references.

References. In the text: Black (1979), Black & Blue (1983), or "as noted by Green (1978) and Black (1979). Multiple references should be given in chronological order. List of references are to be in international alphabetical order (i.e. Å = Aa, Æ and Å = Ae, Ø = Oe). Titles of journals should be abbreviated according to the World List of Scientific Periodicals. Do not refer to papers "in prep." among the references.

Examples:

Journal:

Løken, A. 1962. Social wasps in Norway (Hymenoptera, Vespidae). Norsk ent. Tidsskr. 12, 191 - 218.

Book:

Mayr, E. 1963. Animal species and evolution. Harvard University Press, Cambridge, Mass.

Chapter:

Whitman, I. 1951. The arthropod vectors of yellow fever, pp. 229 - 298 in: Strobe, K. (ed.) Yellow Fever. McGraw-Hill, New York.

Proofs. Two copies of the first proof will be sent to the author. One corrected copy should be returned to the editors without delay.

Reprints. 20 reprints are supplied free. Additional reprints can be ordered at a charge; an order form is sent with the proofs.
